Thank you for contacting Obama for America. The volume of emails we are receiving has exceeded all expectations. While it is difficult to respond to 20,000 emails a week as efficiently as we would like, the level of interest and nature of the comments reflected in these communications are very gratifying. Your thoughts on our campaign and America's future are greatly appreciated.

Individual citizens like you are the foundation of this campaign. In my February 10 announcement in front of the Old State Capitol in Springfield, Illinois, I spoke of working together to reclaim the meaning of citizenship, restore our sense of common purpose and rally the power of millions of voices to effectuate long overdue change. I hope you will visit our website, www.BarackObama.com, to view that speech in its entirety.

We've built a set of easy-to-use web tools that empower you to get further involved right now. At My.BarackObama.com you can:

- build your own profile and connect with supporters near you
- find or create your own local or national group
- create your own personal fundraising page and track your progress
- find events near you or plan your own
- chronicle your campaign experience on your own blog

You can also view my thoughts on some of the major issues we face at the website, and we will have more information and exciting features there in the weeks and months ahead.

If you're not sure you want to get involved, and are writing to express a concern or disagreement, we appreciate that as well. The open discussion we want to facilitate cannot take place without hearing from people expressing a wide range of views.

Thank you again for writing.

Sincerely,

Barack Obama
